

Constitution amendments

This is with reference to the constitution & code of ethics of January 2008. Suggested, amendments to this constitution were put on the website for the information and perusal by all the members of the IOS and were also handed over to the members attending the conference. These amendments were duly passed by the house at the AGM held on the 17th December at Dr T M Pai convention centre Mangalore.

Subsequently the constitution was printed in Q1 of 2011 and circulated to all the life members indicating as amended on December 2010. These printed copies were perused by the present EC

The constitution committee and the Executive committee have noticed certain variations which were NOT circulated to the members in the AGM hence considered not approved by the house.

The printed copy of the constitution sent to the members may not stand the test of time unless corrected and approved by the general body. In the larger interest of the society these would be corrected and amendments will be issued to all the members subsequently. Till such time the circulated printed book is held in abeyance and only those amendments which were put on the website before the AGM and circulated will be in practice and followed by the society.
